Organism (name and description)	Habitat	Prey	Predator(s)	Role in the food chain	Physical Adaptation	Behavioural Adaptation	Average length and weight (female/male?) (in cm and kg)	Family Life	Fun Facts
Fennec Fox  (aka: "Desert Fox")  - they are cream-coloured with black-tipped tails	Desert (North Africa and Asia)  - dig den in the sand; families can interconnect their dens  - dens can have up to 15 different entrances		- Eagle Owl is main predator - jackals - hyenas - saluki (wild dog)	Omnivore	- can go for long periods without water  - enormous "bat-like" ears (15 cm long) help to keep them cool  - sensitive hearing to hear prey move underground  - wooly undercoat insulates them from cold desert nights and from hot days  - can jump high and far to help catch prey	avoid daytime heat of the desert  - they burrow in the sand to stay cool	- world's smallest fox - weighs 1kg - 40-60 cm in length	- live in packs of up to 10  - they mate for life; usually in January or February with litters being born in March-April	- they mark their territory with urine  - they are not endangered  - average life span of 10 years in the wild

Organism (name and description)	Habitat	Prey	Predator(s)	Role in the food chain	Physical Adaptation	Behavioural Adaptation	Average length and weight (female/male?)	Family Life	Fun Facts
							(in cm and kg)		