Mad Science

At the Scene of the Crime

5½ - 11yrs

Campers are introduced to the notion of observation and its importance as part of the scientific method. A mock crime scene is examined, information is presented in many formats, and the challenge is to sort and sift through the data in an effort to solve the 'crime'. Several forensic techniques are also employed toward this effort. The end of the day brings about a conclusion to the 'crime', followed by a recap of the information and methods used to ascertain what actually happened.
